Orlando-style rifle offered for practice

SAINT ANN'S, ONT.

'Not target practice, it is killing practice,' critic says

A Niagara Region gun club offered a discount on a "tactical shooting experience" this week, inviting visitors to fire 20 rounds from a semiautomatic rifle similar to the one used in the Orlando mass shooting.

Staff at the Silverdale Gun Club in Saint Ann's, Ont., said they stood by the time-limited offer despite its timing, which was coincidental.

"We promote the sport of shooting," said club co-owner Joan Miller. "It is one of the safest sports in Canada."

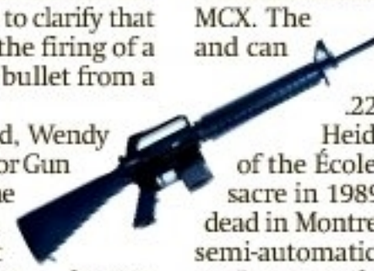
On Thursday, 10 per cent of Groupon's subscribers were emailed an offer of a 50 per cent discount on the purchase of a "tactical shooting experience" package. For $67, visitors could fire 20 rounds from a nine millimetre handgun, another 20 from a .223 calibre tactical firearm, and "1 round using a .50 caliber Browning Machine Gun."

The Browning Machine Gun, or BMG, is a fully automatic firearm and prohibited in Canada. On Friday, Miller told Torstar News Service the online ad was corrected to clarify that the purchase includes the firing of a single BMG .50 calibre bullet from a sniper rifle.

Responding to the ad, Wendy Cukier, of the Coalition for Gun Control, said "perhaps the Groupon will awaken Canadians to the extent that our gun laws have been eroded and put lives at risk."

For the rifle portion of the "tactical shooting experience," the ad said purchasers could choose from three different semiautomatic rifles, including the AR-15.

The AR-15, which stands for ArmaLite Rifle, is a popular semi-automatic rifle among recreational shooters across North America. Originally designed for military forces in the 1950s, the modern civilian version is fast to reload, inexpensive to buy and relatively easy to use.



Authorities initially believed Omar Mateen, shooter behind last weekend's slaughter in Orlando, Fla., used an AR-15, a semiautomatic rifle. The weapon was later determined to be a similar firearm called a Sig Sauer MCX. The guns look the same and can shoot the same calibre ammunition — .223.

Heidi Rathjen, a survivor of the École Polytechnique massacre in 1989 that left 14 women dead in Montreal, said military-style semi-automatic rifles like the AR-15 are "weapons designed to kill people" and should be banned.

Discharging them at a gun range "is not target practice," she argued. "It is killing practice."

In Canada, the AR-15 is classified as a restricted, not prohibited, firearm. Its use is confined to a shooting range by a member of a gun club. Owners must complete extra licensing courses and are subject to screening by the RCMP before they are allowed to purchase and keep one.

Blanding's turtles are back

More than 30 baby Blanding's turtles were released into Rouge National Park Tuesday by members of Parks Canada, the Toronto Zoo and the Toronto Region Conservation Authority. Nicknamed the "smiling turtle," the species nearly went extinct in the Rouge Valley due to habitat loss and predation. The progress of the turtle tykes will be closely monitored as part of an effort to help the species survive. WITH FILES FROM TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

Metro | Toronto

1 Endangered

As few as six Blanding's turtles remained in the wild in the Rouge Valley region in 2014. They have been reintroduced into the park each spring for three years in a row now. While there are more than 300 turtle and tortoise species in the world, the Blanding's turtle is among seven species listed in Ontario as threatened, endangered, or a special concern.

2 Research

The zoo and TRCA have been monitoring Blanding's turtles in the Rouge Valley in 2005. The zoo collected Blanding's turtle eggs from a stable source population elsewhere in southern Ontario in 2014 and has been raising them in a protected environment for reintroduction to the wild ever since.

3 Looks

Baby Blanding's turtles are 10 centimetres long on average, with a smooth, black upper shell with small yellow flecks, and a bright yellow chin and throat. Blanding's turtles can live up to 80 years and have inhabited the Rouge Valley for thousands of years. Despite being a long-lived species, two years ago, they came close to being classified as endangered.

4 Threats

"Blanding's turtles are a flagship species representing a group of animals facing a variety of threats," said Dr. Andrew Lentini, the Toronto Zoo's curator of reptiles and amphibians. Blanding's turtles are threatened by increased human interaction, habitat loss, and nest predation by raccoons, skunks, foxes and other wildlife.

COURTESY HEIKE REUSE

5 Preservation

"Seven of eight turtle species in Ontario are at risk and need our help," Lentini said, urging Canadians to play a part in preserving them by visiting the Toronto Zoo's Adopt-A-Pond website and by reporting sightings to the zoo's Ontario Turtle Tally.

METRO Explains

Why cities are cracking down on Airbnb

This summer, as you plan your vacation, you might want to take note that cities like New York and Berlin have passed strict regulations limiting how Airbnb can operate. Toronto politicians have also expressed concerns about the vacation-rental website's growth here. So why are people worried? Metro breaks down some of the concerns. May Warren/Metro

AFFORDABLE HOUSING

Critics say the service will make affordable housing even harder to find in pricey cities as landlords look to make big bucks on short-term rentals. Airbnb, meanwhile, says laws limiting its activity makes it harder for average people to pay the bills without the extra income they get from renting out properties. Vancouver recently launched an investigation into whether the service is driving up rent, drawing heated debate from both sides.

HOTEL INDUSTRY

Predictably, the hotel industry is not happy about off-the-books rentals and reps say Airbnb undermines their business. Toronto Coun. Kristyn Wong-Tam told Metro earlier this month she worries if hotels start closing it could mean Toronto will no longer be able to compete for events such as international conferences. Airbnb says there's room for everyone.

TAX REVENUE

In the U.S., critics argue cities aren't getting hotel taxes from Airbnb transactions. In response, the company announced earlier this month that it's collecting taxes from users directly and handing them over to governments in 190 cities and states. It's not clear yet how this might shake out in Toronto. Mayor John Tory said this month he'd like to see a hotel tax instituted as a new source of revenue.

SERVICE JOBS

Some labour activists in the U.S. argue the rise of Airbnb is reducing the number of unionized hotel jobs, reports Al Jazeera America. Renting out a room doesn't require a trained concierge, manager or other hotel staff.

SAFETY CONCERNS

The owner of a short-term home rental in Willowdale was charged with violating the zoning bylaw after neighbours complained of parties. Horror stories of Airbnb rentals include a Calgary family who came home to find renters had trashed their place in an apparent drug-induced orgy. Airbnb reps argue most rentals go off without a hitch and, earlier this month, the company launched a function allowing people to complain about neighbours' rentals.

Hold line on taxes, grow city: Mayor

URBAN PLANNING

Tory's plans could mean cuts as staff contend with inflation

Mayor John Tory wants city departments and agencies to "absorb" more than $100 million in unavoidable cost hikes next year while city council engages Toronto in "ambitious" city building.

If council raises property taxes by inflation or less, as Tory demands, that translates into big spending cuts by city departments and agencies, boards and commissions.

Inflation alone, at Toronto's current rate of about 2 per cent, is poised to add $79.4 million to city spending.

Bureaucrats would have to cut a further $19 million to cover increases in the police contract negotiated last year. For the TTC, no 2017 figure was available, but the four-year cost of that contract is pegged at $196 million.

Mayor John Tory.
TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

Wage and benefit hikes for the rest of the city's roughly 50,000 workers total $56 million, with further costs for Tory-endorsed transit expansion and service improvements, including ambitious poverty-eradication measures.

"While our budget is under real strain, we must continue to build the city we want," Tory states.

He wants the city to look at contracting out more public services, a greater focus on digital solutions and more cost-saving efforts such as the police transformational task force.

+ TAXING IDEAS

A city report contains more ways to raise revenue for approved capital projects:

1 Congestion tax $220M
This would be applied to vehicles entering or exiting a predetermined area during a certain time period.

2 Alcohol tax $21-151M
Common in U.S. cities.

3 Parking tax $171-535M
Could generate sustainable revenue.

4 Amusement tax $5-35M
This would affects discretionary, recreational spending.

5 Vehicle registration tax $18-94M
A motor vehicle registration tax is a common revenue stream in big cities and is a "practical and sustainable" method to increase annual revenue.

Online ad offers baby boy for sale

KIJIJI

Author could be charged with mischief, T.O. police say

Luke Simcoe
Metro | Toronto

Toronto police are investigating after someone posted a Kijiji ad attempting to sell a two-month-old baby boy for $600.

The ad was posted to the classified website Monday but has since been removed. The case is being handled by the police department's cyber crimes unit.

"There's a high likelihood that this is someone who thinks this is funny, but it's something that needs to be investigated," Const. Craig Brister told Metro on Tuesday.

The baby's mother died "in the process" of giving birth, the ad claims.

"I can't take care of the baby myself, so I decided to post an ad up on Kijiji. The baby is male an unnamed," it reads. "I want $600 or best offer … I just need this baby gone."

Screenshots of the ad circulating on social media evoked a strong response from users.

"Troll or not, as a mom I don't take things like this lightly. It's horrible," wrote one woman on Facebook.

"This has to be a sick joke. I sincerely hope it is and if it isn't that baby is removed from the situation immediately," wrote another Facebook user.

Even if the post is a hoax, Brister said the author could be charged with mischief. However, it's likely they would just receive a warning, he said.

"If you had someone doing it repeatedly, that's a different story," he said. "That's bringing police resources in again and again for nothing."

Kids in crisis face wait lists

MENTAL HEALTH

Youth showing up in ER at alarming rate: Report card

May Warren
Metro | Toronto

Maria Estrada is hoping to shed light on the importance of providing youth with easier and faster access to mental health services. LIZ BEDDALL / METRO

At 16, Maria Estrada faced a waiting list of about a year to see a specialist about her anxiety. It was a year she didn't know if she would have.

"It was awful because I didn't know how to cope with my anxiety," remembers the now 20-year-old George Brown College student. "I needed to see this person to get some hope."

Estrada ended up in the emergency room more than 20 times during that period, often suicidal.

Access to youth mental health services in small communities has been under a microscope given recent suicides in Woodstock, Ont., and suicide attempts on Attawapiskat First Nation.

But, a new report card from Children's Mental Health Ontario says kids and youth in crisis are showing up in hospitals at an alarming rate right across the province, including in big cities like Toronto.

In the past 10 years, there's been a 54 per cent increase in emergency department visits and a 60 per cent increase in hospitalizations tied to mental health issues among young people ages five to 24.

Kim Moran, the organization's CEO, said it's a problem tied directly to long wait times for "consistent counselling and therapy."

Moran and her organization want more funding for children's mental health centres to offer everything from intensive treatment to family support.

It's part of what Toronto's Centre for Addiction and Mental Health is trying to address with three new youth walk-in clinics for ages 11 to 25. The clinics are one-stop shops designed specifically to cut waits.

David O'Brien of Scarborough's East Metro Youth Services said he hopes the walk-ins, which are part of a three-year clinical trial, might be a model that could work across the country. The Scarborough walk-in is already open and two others will come online in July.

The need, he said, is immense and immediate: "We're talking about kids who are really having a lot of struggles and kids who might be suicidal."

Estrada, who eventually did get help, now works at a mental health outreach centre. "I never thought I would make it to 20," she said.

6,500

More than 6,500 children and youth are waiting more than a year for mental health treatment, according to Children's Mental Health Ontario's 2016 report card on child and youth mental health.

PM pays tribute to indigenous people

NATIONAL ABORIGINAL DAY

Justin Trudeau bathed in smoke, paddled in canoe in river

Prime Minister Justin Trudeau was in vintage form Tuesday as he took part in a ceremony marking the 20th annual National Aboriginal Day.

Trudeau attended a sunrise ritual on the shore of the Ottawa River wearing moccasins and a buckskin jacket that the Prime Minister's Office said was owned by his father, the late Pierre Elliott Trudeau.

The former prime minister was known in his younger years for donning buckskin before venturing out on canoeing expeditions in Canada's far north.

As the sun rose beyond a bridge linking Quebec and Ontario, the younger Trudeau was bathed with a ceremonial smoke as part of a smudging ceremony before paddling beneath the Parliament Buildings in a 10-metre cargo canoe.

The federal government began observing National Aboriginal Day on June 21 two decades ago.

Trudeau didn't speak publicly at the event, but issued a statement in which he encouraged Canadians to learn more about the country's indigenous heritage.

"National Aboriginal Day is first and foremost an occasion to celebrate the fundamental role First Nations, Metis, and Inuit have played — and continue to play — in shaping the identity of all Canadians," the statement said.

> Coast to coast to coast, their remarkable art and cultures, significant contributions and history, are essential to our sense of nationhood. PM Justin Trudeau

"Coast to coast to coast, their remarkable art and cultures, significant contributions and history, are essential to our sense of nationhood."

Trudeau also pointed to a rash of recent suicides in some aboriginal communities, and the feelings of despair felt by some indigenous Canadians, as reasons for governments to "better support the well-being of children and families, improve the quality of education for indigenous students, and ensure health services meet the needs of indigenous communities."

Calgary's goats get to work munching weeds

Helen Pike
Metro | Calgary

These aren't country goats, they're city goats — City of Calgary employees in fact.

On Monday, the herd moved into their new urban digs and got straight to work munching locally grown, possibly organic, Canadian Thistle as part of a three-week pilot project. The city will be seeing how the cool kids will work in managing invasive weed species the natural way: by tasting them as a snack and destroying their seeds through their digestive tracts.

"We're interested in exploring alternatives to using herbicides, for example, and we're also seeing if they can do some things for the healthy landscape as well," said Chris Manderson, urban conservation lead for Calgary Parks.

The goats are also handy to have around in hard-to access areas that are tough for maintenance equipment and personnel to reach safely.

Do you, or someone you know, look like the second coming of Dutch painter Vincent Van Gogh? If so, give Douglas Coupland a call.

The renowned Vancouver-based artist and author has launched a worldwide search for Van Gogh lookalikes for his latest art piece.

"I'm learning that most people have someone in their life who looks like Vincent Van Gogh. It could be your next door neighbor. It could be the guy at work. It could be you," Coupland writes.

People are asked to submit their doppelganger photos to iamvincent.com.

Coupland also plans to blog at the site and share the latest entries as they come in.

The person that most closely resembles Van Gogh will be given 5,000 euros and will be flown to Vancouver with a guest to have their head 3D-scanned so Coupland can create a two metre-by-three metre bronze sculpture of the artist.

Strangely, the bust will be the first of many commissioned monumental outdoor works featuring redheads.

The series, he said in a statement, recognizes "the most recent successful human mutation."

"This genetic magic is a microcosm of the way in which all life on Earth changes with time," he explains.

Referendum closing in as Cameron tries to sway voters

From the prime minister to sports and pop icons David and Victoria Beckham, supporters of Britain staying in the European Union urged voters Tuesday to think about future generations when they cast ballots in a referendum that has divided the nation.

With the black door of 10 Downing St. offering a statesman's backdrop, Cameron appealed directly to EU-wary older voters, saying that leaving the bloc would risk the country's economic security — and younger generations would have to live with the consequences.

"Do think about the hopes and dreams of your children and grandchildren," he said. "They can't undo the decision we take," he said. "If we vote out, that's it. It's irreversible."

The plea came as the already heated campaign moved into its tense final days. Opponents said the statement outside the prime minister's residence betrayed Cameron's worry that the referendum he called to settle Britain's place in Europe could end with the country walking away from the bloc.

Steve Hilton, a former Cameron adviser who now backs a "leave" vote, said Cameron had been "wheeled out by rather panicky spin doctors" to appeal for votes.

Cameron seemed to direct his appeal at those who grew up in the after-shadow of Britain's imperial period, in a nation that had stood against Nazi tyranny during World War II. Polls suggest these voters, many of them Conservatives, are more likely than younger Britons to reject the pan-European EU project.

Cameron tried to assure them that Britain remains a great country — even if it is part of a 28-nation bloc — and that being in the EU allows the country to promote the values it holds dear.

"Brits don't quit," he said. "We get involved, we take a lead. We make a difference. We get things done."

Cameron acknowledged that many Britons didn't vote for him and don't like him.

The "remain" camp also got a boost from more popular — and populist — figures when soccer star David Beckham and his designer wife Victoria added their voices to the EU cause.

"For our children and their children, we should be facing the problems of the world together and not alone," he said.

Former Spice Girl Victoria Beckham later registered her view by posting the symbol of the "Stronger In" campaign on her Instagram page.

The "Leave.EU" group had suggested that Victoria Beckham was a supporter of their side based on a 1996 interview with The Spectator in which she was quoted as deriding Brussels bureaucrats and saying that "we must keep our national individuality." THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Obama denounces failure on gun deal

President Barack Obama is denouncing the Senate's failure to pass gun control measures in the aftermath of the mass shooting in Orlando, Florida.

Obama says on Twitter that the Senate failed the American people and that gun violence requires more than moment of silence. The White House has said previously that tweets from his account are from Obama himself.

White House spokesman Josh Earnest says the vote is "a shameful display of cowardice" He told CNN on Tuesday that the Republican-led chamber's blocking of four gun control proposals Monday does nothing to keep extremists from acquiring guns.

Earnest said lawmakers lament gun violence but "don't do anything about it." He said that while no bill can prevent all gun violence, "why wouldn't we do more?"

Elsewhere Tuesday, a moderate Republican senator sought broad bipartisan support for a compromise to block gun purchases by some suspected terrorists.

Senate Majority Leader Mitch McConnell said he would allow a vote on the proposal by Sen. Susan Collins, but stopped short of endorsing the measure itself. The package seemed to face an uphill climb for the 60 votes it would need, thanks to the hurdles of election-year politics and opposition from the National Rifle Association and Gun Owners of America.

If we can't pass this, it truly is a broken system up here," said Sen. Lindsey Graham. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Jordan shuts borders to refugees after attack

Jordan sealed its last entry point for Syrian refugees Tuesday after a cross-border suicide attack killed six members of the Jordanian security forces, wounded 14 and exposed the pro-Western kingdom's growing vulnerability to spillover from the conflict.

The closure raised questions about the fate of thousands of Syrian refugees who are stranded in desert areas along the border, who depend on food and water from the Jordanian side.

Jordan said its security comes first. Government spokesman Mohammed Momani said Jordan had warned for months that militants are mingling with refugees in the two rapidly expanding encampments on the border and pose a serious security threat.

"The border will be closed," Momani told reporters. "We will not allow the crossing of people or vehicles through that area." THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Pension deal came together quickly

RETIREMENT

In terms of policy-making, change was in blink of an eye

In two and a half years, Canadians will gradually start paying more premiums into the Canada Pension Plan.

In several decades, supporters say the "historic" CPP deal reached Monday between Ottawa and most provinces will boost retirement security for future generations.

But by policy-making standards, the agreement-in-principle happened in the blink of an eye.

Even the federal finance minister, a pension expert, had given himself until the end of the year to finish up negotiations.

> It's really historic — I never thought this moment would come.
> Hassan Yussuff,
> president of the Canadian Labour Congress

Instead, the provinces are now being asked to finalize an agreement by July 15 that will eventually increase contributions and retirement benefits through the public plan.

Following weeks of talks and an all-day meeting in Vancouver on Monday, finance ministers emerged with the agreement-in-principle.

Even provinces such as Saskatchewan and British Columbia, which had expressed concerns about the timing of CPP reform, had signed on. Only Manitoba and Quebec declined to agree to the terms.

The agreement came together as pollsters pointed to overwhelming popular support for public pension reform.

The federal Liberals ran on platform to upgrade the public pension system, as did their Ontario cousins.

How did this all happen so quickly?

Sources familiar with the talks said doubters had concerns about the potential economic impact of boosting the CPP. They said Ottawa made a major push in the final days and hours, which helped secure enough country-wide support. To make the change, they needed consent of a minimum of seven provinces.

The sources also suggested Prime Minister Justin Trudeau himself was involved in the extra effort.

A food market inside a shipping container

Wanyee Li
Metro | Vancouver

A Vancouver chef and entrepreneur is creating a new public food market made out of shipping containers that aims to help customers connect with local makers of food, from farmers to chefs.

The project is the brainchild of Chris Jerome, founder of Hawkers Market, a series of popup events he describes as "underground food markets." But Hawkers Wharf will be a permanent 100,000-square-foot waterfront site and feature more than 40 food producers at any given time, said Jerome.

A public food market made of shipping containers set to launch in Vancouver. CONTRIBUTED

"They're all local businesses, they're all from Vancouver, all focused on very traceable foods," he said.

"They're encouraged to do their food in a sustainable way. That's one of the mandates of the market."

"People looking for places to take their ideas to and then create a business out of it and then also get the customer sales and validation."

ROSEMARY WESTWOOD ON HOW TO BE A WIFE

SO NOW WHAT WILL 'I DO'?

I've spent my adult life identifying as an uncompromising feminist, but in preparing for marriage and its innumerable compromises, I'm forced to figure out how to pick my battles

It's a strange thing to be on the brink of "wife."

Over the last two years, as I have fallen in love and become engaged, I've had to face the idea of marriage, an institution which, though released from its former function as a means of owning a woman or legally raping her, remains awkward for the liberated woman.

There seem to be three in this relationship: Myself, my fiancé, and my feminism. And while the latter played a clear and dominating role when I was a single woman, it has seemed unequipped for — even hostile to — love.

That has sparked a genuine period of panic and doubt: How does one square her feminism with "the wife"?

Statistics don't help. Excerpting her new book, All the Single Ladies, in New York magazine this spring, Rebecca Traister detailed how married women's earnings in the U.S. trail single women's by a wide margin. In Canada, married men outearned married women by nearly $20,000 on average in 2008. And for couples with kids, even when both parents are working, Canadian women in 2010 were spending at least 20 hours a week more than men on unpaid child care.

This is not far from where we were a decade ago. In 2004, in her book The Meaning of Wife, the writer Anne Kingston described how wifeliness remained a useful tool to define women, and to shame and coerce them into socially acceptable roles.

"A lot of the themes haven't really changed, in fact they've kind of amplified," Kingston told me recently during a chat for my new podcast, called Nth Wave. Among them: The wedding-industrial complex, which sells marriage as a woman's ultimate dream; the battle over women's unpaid and undervalued domestic work; and the denunciation of singleness as innately selfish. Never mind the new era of fetishized kept women. "I couldn't have imagined the Real Housewives franchise," she said with a laugh.

Kingston told me that when she was writing the book she was really fascinated by what she saw as a calcified notion of what a wife was.

"Women I knew didn't want to become wives, wife was a dirty word, yet at the same time most women became wives and are wives."

Around that time, I was graduating high school and heading to university. I had been assuming feminism was a dead cause, as I foolishly told one professor. It's a story I think of often, because of how unnervingly little I knew about what I didn't know.

My professor was nonplussed, responding with something to the effect of, "Just you wait," and planting doubt. In one political science course, feminist theory took up a thin, measly chapter, and I noticed. In third year, I took a queer studies class that sent me into furious debates with my poor father, whom I forced to be a foil for the epiphanies tossed out in class.

I had been that girl who fought boys on other girls' behalf, and I became that woman who took every chance to fight what I saw as the patriarchy.

In my ensuing years as a single feminist, it was me-against-the-world, and I never noticed how often feminism itself was framed in that hyper-individualized, confrontational way.

The message was always to guard against lurking sexism. To expect to not only to fight for your own place it in the world, but also to then defend it fiercely. To not give an inch — let alone your whole self.

A marriage, however, can't operate like a war zone. Giving in, even giving up, will be required, because it's a community.

And feminism, particularly the form of it that's ascendant in our society right now, focused as it is on fighting poverty and sexual violence and illuminating the intersections of race and class, doesn't offer much help.

The very word, "wife," as Kingston said during our conversation, still holds that "beta" connotation. And as I set out to become one, what concerns me most is how I might, somewhere down deep, believe in that connotation myself.

What does an "equal" marriage even look like? And if the women at Harvard, and women everywhere really, could enter into relationships expecting equality and then still find that they make less money, do far more chores or end up with half-realized careers — how could I possibly assume I'd escape the same fate?

Perhaps I won't. But there are opportunities in intimate life. I can't fix societal expectations. But I can influence the structures of my own marriage.

It's an act of faith and hope I'm willing to take, for love. I believe I can choose my own definition of wife. I can imagine a more egalitarian family.

Others already are. This week, the Journal of Marriage and Family released details of a new study that found couples with a "more egalitarian division of labour" have more sex.

Here's hoping equality always feels that good.

The battle of the buckskins

Early Tuesday morning, Prime Minister Justin Trudeau participated in a canoe ride wearing a buckskin jacket that the PMO said belonged to the PM's father, Pierre Trudeau. The elder Trudeau, we scarcely need remind you, made a signature out of the buckskin look: The image of Pierre rocking tan fringe while paddling a canoe on some remote Canadian waterway is this country's answer to John F. Kennedy and his family at the compound in Hyannis Port. Political considerations aside, we left it to you, the readers, the settle the equally important sartorial question.

We asked: Who wore the buckskin better?

70%: Pierre
He's the OG. Justin's nothing but a damswagger jacker.

30%: Justin
He took an already great look and added great hair.

Justin hasn't found his swagger yet

Justin is very open and adorable...he looks great in anything he wears!

PT was a hard act to follow but JT is the best of both his parents.

Pierre is just doing it. Justin's is a self-conscious photo op.

Look at the way Pierre is wearing it ... with style! The jacket isn't wearing him, he's wearing the jacket!

Most of us can never live up to our dads. No matter how hard we try.

SHOW YOUR PRIDE TASTE THE RAINBOW

There are more ways to "taste the rainbow" than with a package of vending machine candy. Why not a bagel? Or on the top of a morning latte? Yes, LGBTQ Pride season is in full swing across Canada — including this month in Toronto — but that doesn't mean you can't enjoy these colourful treats all year long. Here are a few to inspire you. TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

1 Bagels

New York's The Bagel Store unearthed the rainbow food trend this year when it went viral online for the "rainbow bagel." Owner Scot Rossillo and his team flatten neon-coloured mounds of dough on top of each other, then slice and roll them into bagel circles. Earlier this year, The Bagel Store was selling up to 800 of the brightly coloured bagels each day. Inspired by the success of its fellow bagel maker to the south, Montreal shop REAL Bagel Inc. now serves rainbow bagels, too. And on the west coast, Vancouver's Rosemary Rocksalt is adding colour to its repertoire.

4 Hot dogs

Throw a sausage fest with a dough-wrapped hot dog rainbow. Blogger Beth Jackson Klosterboer with Hungry Happenings covered diced hot dogs in Pillsbury croissant dough sheets brightened with food colouring. She curled the rows into a rainbow shape and put a "pot of gold" dish of mustard at the end.

2 Lattes

Caffeinate with some flare and order some rainbow latte art, colourful designs made with food dye added to steamed milk. Stuart Ross of Bull Dog Coffee near Church and Gerrard streets in Toronto has been pouring colourful flowers and hearts since April.

3 Cake

Cake is a Pride staple. Wanda's Pie in the Sky on Augusta Ave. in Toronto will be offering rainbow cakes and cupcakes at its Kensington Market shop. The treats, dressed with sprinkles and covered in a white buttercream frosting or chocolate ganache, have seven layers.

5 Grilled cheese

Forget bottled food colouring. The chefs at Grill My Cheese in London, England, opt for beetroot, arugula, roasted onion, goat cheese and truffle oil to make their oozy rainbow grilled cheese.

THIS WEEK: Side salads

These sides are summer staples — but there's only one you should be packing for your picnic!

PICK THIS

Ziggy's Oil and Vinegar Coleslaw, 1 cup

Calories 220
Fat 7g
Saturated Fat 0.6g
Sodium 560mg

SKIP THIS

Ziggy's Potato & Egg Salad, 1 cup

Calories 400
Fat 24g
Saturated Fat 4g
Sodium 720mg

HERE'S WHY

Equivalent to two Arby's Regular Roast Beef Sandwiches in fat.

These salads are classic pairings for burgers and hot dogs at summer BBQs. As tasty as a creamy potato salad is, it's one to skip — the mayo-based dressing packs on the fat and calories; it also won't last long in the summer heat. When picking a coleslaw, make sure it's in an oil & vinegar-based slaw. This way you're only getting a third of the fat and about half the calories.

HEALTH CARE

Nutrition advice, just for the ladies

Do women need a special food guide just for them? The Journal of Obstetrics and Gynecology of Canada seems to think so.

It published a 65-page guide for health-care providers about giving nutrition advice to women.

The collaboration between dozens of experts and professional associations contains a lot of common-sense advice: telling doctors to promote "a balanced and varied diet higher in vegetables, fruit, whole grains," and reminding them that "Sensitivity is required ... in terms of language used to communicate with patients about their weight."

The guide includes updated research on the relationship between heart disease and saturated fat intake (it's not as strong as once believed) and focuses heavily on nutrition as it relates to reproductive health. It recommends pregnant and nursing women get enough folate, calcium, vitamin D and beneficial fats from fish.

Shouldn't doctors know this stuff already?

Well, yes. But as obvious as some of these recommendations seem, recent research has suggested there's room for improvement in the amount of nutrition education primary care providers, such as family doctors, get during their training.

Millennials love riesling

Say what you will about millennials ruining the wine industry with their love of funky labels and the simple pleasures of their chosen beverage, as far as I'm concerned the kids are alright.

Anyone who grows Riesling had better agree. Once the king of all grapes, before this younger generation found its sweet tooth, it was about as popular as Donald Trump at a Mary Kay convention. Thanks to support from 20-somethings Riesling has mounted a comeback, both from its homeland of Germany and vineyards beyond. When it comes to new wave Riesling the juice from Washington, with its drier, food-friendly take on the grape, has become the hallmark of the U.S. state's wine production. Kung Fu Girl 2013 Riesling ($18.95-$22.79) balances crisp stone fruit flavours with a clean minerality that's perfect for summer menus.

New research points to the problem of 'social jetlag'

Genna Buck
Metro Canada

You grab a granola bar on the way out the door, eat a yogurt instead of lunch, then finally tuck into a proper dinner and half a bag of chips after you stumble home at 9 p.m. Sound familiar?

Irregular eating patterns because of busy, unpredictable work and school schedules are a reality for many across the Western world, including Canadians.

They may be causing "social jetlag": disturbances in the internal body clock, also called the circadian rhythm. Many processes your body uses to break down and use energy from food are part of the circadian clock, following a predictable daily cycle.

New research suggests messing with that cycle — by eating and sleeping willy-nilly — could be a recipe for health problems.

Two papers published Tuesday in the journal Proceedings of the Nutrition Society collect past studies about how the timing of meals throughout the day affects overall health.

One looked at the impact of erratic eating on heart health and metabolism. The other investigated how the timing of meals impacts people's ability to maintain a healthy weight.

The conclusions were tentative. More research is needed. But the findings boil down to this: Some old-fashioned nutrition wisdom dispensed by grandmas everywhere turns out to be right.

Firstly, three square meals a day might just keep the doctor away. Two studies that randomized participants to either an irregular or regular diet found the regular eaters had lower peak insulin and lower 'bad' cholesterol, indicators of heart health.

Secondly, according to nutrition scientist and study author Gerda Pot, "There seems to be some truth in the saying 'Eat breakfast like a king, lunch like a prince and dinner like a pauper": Studies suggest a clear link between obesity and consuming more calories later at night.

In the U.K. and U.S. — global obesity hotspots — most people increase their calorie intake through the day. The slimmer French tend to eat larger lunches and small dinners.

The collected studies also contained no evidence that eating small meals throughout the day, a common dieting tip, reduces obesity. In fact, it seems the opposite is true.

So science says we should eat fewer meals, on a regular schedule, and get more of our calories earlier in the day. Here's a delicious thought: One weapon against the obesity crisis may just be brunch.

If You Bought Sylvania Automotive Lighting You Could Get Money from a Class Action Settlement

Detailed information and updates are available on the Settlement Website:
www.autolightclaims.ca

A proposed Canada-wide Settlement has been negotiated in class actions relating to the marketing and sales of Osram Sylvania Premium Automotive Lighting. If approved by the Courts, this Settlement will provide benefits to purchasers of the following "Covered Products":

SilverStar ULTRA, SilverStar, XtraVision, or Cool Blue replacement headlight capsules | SilverStar, XtraVision, or Cool Blue sealed beam headlights | SilverStar fog or auxiliary lights

ARE YOU INCLUDED?
You may be a Class Member if you purchased a Covered Product in Canada from September 22, 2005 until December 31, 2014.

WHAT IS THIS CASE ABOUT?
The lawsuits claim that Osram Sylvania, Inc., Osram Sylvania Products, Inc. and Osram Sylvania, Ltd. ("Sylvania") misrepresented that certain replacement automotive lighting is brighter, provides a wider beam and allows drivers to see farther down the road than standard halogen lighting. It also claims that Sylvania omitted material information regarding the reduced life of the replacement lighting. Sylvania denies that it did anything wrong. The Courts did not decide which side was right. Instead, the parties have decided to settle.

WHAT DOES THIS SETTLEMENT PROVIDE?
A Settlement Amount of not less than CDN $1,150,000 (the "Settlement Fund Minimum") and not more than CDN $1,750,000 (the "Settlement Cap Maximum") is intended to pay claims to eligible Class Members, Notice Costs, Claims Administration Fees and Expenses, Class Counsel Fees and Expenses, and Honorarium Awards to the Representative Plaintiffs. In addition, Sylvania has also modified certain product(s) packaging. Full details about the Settlement are available on the Settlement Website at www.autolightclaims.ca.

WHAT TYPE OF COMPENSATION CAN YOU RECEIVE?
Individual Class Member may qualify for Compensation for one of the following, irrespective of how many products have been purchased:

Covered Products	Initial Amount	Maximum Amount
SilverStar ULTRA, SilverStar, XtraVision, or Cool Blue replacement headlight capsule	$12.00	$24.00
SilverStar, XtraVision, or Cool Blue sealed beam headlights	$12.00	$24.00
SilverStar fog or auxiliary lights	$12.00	$24.00

For each Claimant who submits a valid Claim, payment as described above will be issued[1], so long as providing such Compensation does not exceed the Settlement Cap Maximum. If providing each Claimant with such Compensation will exceed the Settlement Cap Maximum, then in such circumstances each Claimant's Compensation shall be reduced on a pro-rata basis.

HOW DO I ASK FOR A PAYMENT?
To receive Compensation, eligible Class Members must submit a Claim Form to the Claims Administrator through the Settlement Website, by email, or by mail. The Claim Form only takes 3-5 minutes to complete. No proof of purchase is necessary.

WHEN SHOULD I MAKE A CLAIM?
Immediately - the Claim Form is already available on the Settlement Website at www.autolightclaims.ca or you can obtain one by contacting the Claims Administrator at 1-855-745-7374. You should act as quickly as possible, ideally you should do so before the date of the Settlement Approval Hearings, which will further extend the deadline. A definite Claim Deadline will be set if and when the Settlement is approved by the Courts. Please consult the Settlement Website for an update of the delays that will be set by the Courts.

WHAT ARE YOUR OPTIONS?
If you are a Class Member, you may (1) send in a Claim Form; (2) object to the settlement; (3) exclude yourself (Opt-Out); or (4) do nothing.

If you don't want to be legally bound by the settlement, you must opt-out. To do so, you must complete and submit an Opt-Out Form to the Claims Administrator. The manner in which you opt-out is available on the form found on the Settlement Website; the delay to do so will be set by the Courts. Residents of Quebec must in addition give notice to the Clerk of the Superior Court of Quebec. Anyone who opts out cannot object to the Settlement, will not be bound by the Settlement Agreement, and will not be eligible to claim benefits under the Agreement, but may be eligible to pursue an individual claim.

To object to or to make representations regarding this proposed Settlement, you must attend one of the Settlement Approval Hearings. You should also notify the Claims Administrator in writing through the website, by email or by mail at least 15-days before the hearing and provide your reasons summarily.

WHEN AND WHERE WILL THE COURTS DECIDE TO APPROVE THE SETTLEMENT?
The Ontario Superior Court of Justice and the Superior Court of Québec will hold hearings to consider whether to approve the Settlement. Each of the Courts must be satisfied that the Settlement is fair, reasonable and in the best interests of Class Members.

Settlement Approval Hearings have been scheduled as follows:

Ontario Action (for Canadian residents other than Quebec) – August 31, 2016 at 9:30 A.M. at the Courthouse located at 1023 King St., L'Orignal, Ontario.
Quebec Action (for Quebec residents) – August 30, 2016 at 9:15 A.M. at the Montreal Courthouse located at 1 Notre-Dame St. East, Montréal, Québec.

Please check the Settlement Website to confirm these dates, as they are subject to change. You do not have to attend the hearings but you may do so if you wish. However, you must do so if you wish to object or make representations regarding the Settlement.

WHEN WILL I BE PAID?
Cheques will only begin to be mailed to eligible Class Members for Compensation at the earliest starting on January 29, 2017, assuming that the Settlement is approved and that such order/judgment has become final and binding.

HOW CAN I GET MORE INFORMATION?
This Notice summarizes the proposed Settlement. More details are in the Settlement Agreement. You can get a copy of the Settlement Agreement and detailed information on how to obtain or file a Claim, Opt-Out or Object on the Settlement Website at www.autolightclaims.ca. For any other information, please contact the Claims Administrator at:
Bruneau Group Inc.
Nelson P.O. 20187 – 322 Rideau St., Ottawa, Ontario K1N 5Y5
Tel: 1-855-745-7374 Email: info@autolightclaims.ca

WHO REPRESENTS ME?
Class Counsel, or the law firms representing the Plaintiffs, are the following:
Consumer Law Group P.C.
251 Laurier Ave. West, Suite 900, Ottawa, Ontario K1P 5J6
Email: jorenstein@clg.org
Consumer Law Group Inc.
1030 rue Berri, Suite 102, Montréal, Québec H2L 4C3

5 CIDERS TO QUENCH YOUR SUMMER THIRST

What's old is brewed again: The drink of summer 2016 has a very 1716 feel to it. Humble apple cider, the brew of choice during Canada's pioneer days, is back in a big way. The naturally gluten-free fermented fruit drink, often called hard cider in North America, is hydrating, bubbly and slightly sweet. Here are five rising cider stars. GENNA BUCK/METRO GENNA.BUCK@METRONEWS.CA

1 Rock Creek Dry Apple Cider

From: Alberta
Alcohol: 5.5%
This fruity, fragrant, not-too-bubbly cider is a favourite on the west coast and the Prairies. Its notes of vanilla and cinnamon pair perfectly with cheeses like cheddar, gouda and brie and the smoky flavours of pulled pork or sausages.

2 B.C. Tree Fruits Apple&Hops

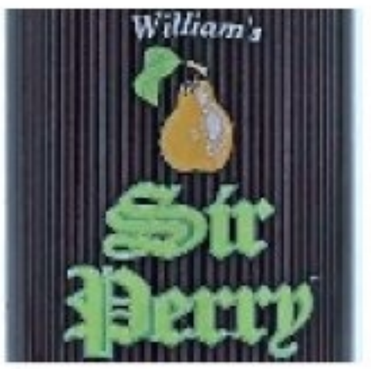
From: B.C.
Alcohol: 6%
This rising star from B.C. is hopping on the trend of adding hops to cider for a fusion of bitter beeriness with sweet cider taste. It's dry and tart with a creamy gold colour and hints of grapefruit.

3 Pommies Dry cider

From: Ontario
Alcohol: 5%
Pommies is a light, crisp refreshing summer alternative to white wine or coolers. It goes down easily with summer fruits and makes an intriguing addition to a bellini with your favourite cognac-based fruit liqueur.

4 Brickworks Queen Street 501

From: Ontario
Alcohol: 5%
As Toronto's Brickworks Cider-house was recently bought by the big-box Canadian Mill Street Brewery, this slightly sweeter cider is showing up in more stores than ever. Its flavour, with notes of honey, is perfect for summer sipping on the patio and makes a refreshing alternative to dessert wine.



5 William's Sir Perry Pear Cider

From: U.K.
Alcohol: 6%
Don't like them apples very much? Try a fruity import from across the pond. Very bubbly and fairly sweet, this pear cider with hints of peach and apple tastes best over lots of ice.

CIDER'S SWEET RISE

"Cider is in this perfect position between craft beer and wine," said Thomas Wilson, chair of the Ontario Craft Cider Association.

Wine is too strong for many, he said, and beer makes a lot of people feel bloated. But cider hits that sweet spot, clocking in between 3 and 10 per cent alcohol by volume.

Sales of craft cider have grown by 54 per cent over the past year just in Ontario. For a long time, cider just wasn't cool. "It was what farm workers drank after work," Wilson said. Now the trend's reversed. "People are getting away from fine dining," Wilson said, in favour of "pub peasant food" that goes great with cider.

TORONTO STAR Teacher Award

Do you know a special teacher?

We're asking Toronto Star readers to nominate an educator in the teaching profession for the 8th Annual Toronto Star Teacher Award.

Beetle Denim channels the 1970s

Mike Goetz
For Metro Canada

You're just heading out in your Canadian Tuxedo, a.k.a. blue jeans paired with a denim jacket, but something's wrong. You're thinking maybe you need more cowbell, but that's not it. Then it dawns on you. You have a fever, and the only prescription is more denim!

Enter the special edition 2016 VW Beetle Denim. Just what the doctor ordered.

It may not have actual denim anywhere near it, but the spirit of the fabric is what it's all about.

Witness the Stonewash Blue Metallic paint job, the convertible top and seat covers that mimic the look of denim, seatback pockets that look like the pockets on your favourite pair of jeans (right down to the red tab), and the colour co-ordinated "brushed aluminum" look dashboard.

The exterior has been tweaked to take you back to that groovy time back in 1970s, when denim ruled every-day fashion, like a casual dictator.

Check out those '70s-era "dog dish" wheels.

All this extra nostalgia plied on a nameplate already rampant with nostalgia could have been a kitschy disaster, but the Denim is one of the best looking "new" Beetles models out there, at least to these eyes, and to the eyes of my significant other, who is usually ambivalent about any vehicle design, no matter what the vehicle genre or price point. ("That? That costs eighty grand? No thank you.")

Underneath the denim treatment is a standard VW Beetle convertible, and that means a decent, but not an overwhelming driving and handling experience, a pretty tight rear seat, restricted rearward vision, and a very small trunk, which is further compromised by its responsibility to house the back cover that goes over the roof when it's down.

The seats are very comfortable and supportive, and the new touch screen, rear camera, and apps for Android Auto and Apple Car Play, give the Denim a very modern and classy feel behind the wheel.

The new powertrain is also very refined and slick, although some launches came with a nagging dead spot, until the motor and auto transmission figured out what to do.

The Denim is meant to be a fun, and the fun goes up several notches whenever you press the button that powers the roof down — in less than 10 seconds.

When it's that easy and quick to get the roof down and up, you'll surely do more open-air motoring than you would otherwise.

Like jeans, convertibles never seem to go out of style and always put you in a good mood. Put the two together and how can you lose?

New Ghostbusters wheels are deadly

IN BRIEF

2016 Chevy Malibu Aces IIHS Crash Tests

The 2016 Chevy Malibu has been named a Top Safety Pick Plus by the U.S.-based non-profit Insurance Institute for Highway Safety (IIHS). The car scored the top "good" rating in all of the crash test categories, including in the tough small overlap test. To gain the "Plus" moniker, a car must score at least an "advanced" rating for front crash prevention, which the Malibu exceeded with a "superior" rating. In testing, the Malibu totally avoided a collision when run at an obstacle at 19 km/h.

Ghostbusters' new ride a hearse

There are a lot of new things happening with the upcoming Ghostbusters movie. Along with an all-female cast for its main characters, the new Ghostbusters will change how you see Ecto-1 for years to come. The original movies used a 1959 Cadillac ambulance, and the new Ecto-1 comes in the form of a 1982 Cadillac hearse. In a way, it's quite the opposite from the previous Ecto-1, considering an ambulance's main priority is to save people from dying, while a hearse transports people who are already dead. The story goes that the new team gets a hold of the hearse, which is borrowed from Patty Tolan's (Leslie Jones) uncle, who runs a funeral home. JASON SIU/AUTOGUIDE.COM

GASOLINE-POWERED VEHICLES

Norway to ban traditional cars

One country is making the move to ban sales of gasoline-powered vehicles. According to a new report, Norway's four main political parties have come to an agreement on a new energy policy that would result in a ban of gasoline-powered car sales as early as 2025. Making the law even more interesting is the fact that Norway is currently one of the world's largest oil exporters. JASON SIU/AUTOGUIDE.COM

5 BRANDS MOST POPULAR WITH THE YOUNGER BUYERS

Millennials don't seem to be interested in the same cars as their parents. According to data from IHS Automotive, the Subaru WRX has the highest mix of millennial buyers overall, with over 25 per cent of its owners between the ages of 18 to 34. But which brands have the most millennial buyers? You might be surprised at some of the answers. JASON SIU/AUTOGUIDE.COM

1 Dodge

The most popular automaker among millennials isn't Chevrolet or Ford, but Dodge. Last year, 15.8 per cent of its sales went to buyers 18 to 34. It's a surprise, considering Dodge is killing off its compact Dart, which leaves one less interesting choice in cars for young shoppers to select from.

2 Mitsubishi

Younger buyers account for 15.3 per cent of Mitsubishi sales. While on the face of it this news may seem surprising, smaller models like the Mirage and the 2017 Mitsubishi Mirage G4, which debuted in New York earlier this year, tend to appeal to a younger demographic.

3 Mazda

Mazda is zoom-zooming its way into young buyers' hearts, with the Japanese automaker coming in third place with 15.2 per cent of its sales going to those between 18 to 34.

4 Volkswagen

As the only German automaker on the top five list, 14 per cent of Volkswagen's sales went to millennials, according to IHS Automotive.

5 Jeep

The fifth-most popular brand with millennials is Jeep, where 13.4 per cent of its sales are made by buyers under the age of 35.

Genesis to get an all-electric car

GREEN CARS

Luxury brand will likely develop its own system

Hyundai's Genesis G90. Hyundai's luxury brand says it wants to differentiate itself from its parent company. HANDOUT

Stephen Elmer
AutoGuide.com

Hyundai's Genesis luxury brand is working to develop its own all-electric car.

"We will definitely go as Genesis brand down the road of alternative propulsions and it is very, very obvious that EV is definitely on the map," Hyundai's senior vice president Manfred Fitzgerald said to a news organization. "I think full electric cars will be the future in the auto industry," he said.

Hyundai already has experience with electric vehicles as the brand is gearing up to release its new Ioniq sedan. But Genesis wants to differentiate itself from Hyundai and will likely develop its own electric vehicle system, especially considering its cars are larger than the Ioniq. Genesis has also announced its intention to launch a diesel-powered G80, as the brand believes that having a diverse offering of powertrains is essential.

MERCEDES E400

The wagon returns

Mercedes has come out with the 2017 E400 wagon. HANDOUT

Jason Siu
AutoGuide.com

Maybe wagons aren't dead after all.

Mercedes-Benz has just introduced the 2017 Mercedes E400 wagon, sporting a 3.0-litre V6 Biturbo engine with 329 horsepower.

Although the popularity of wagons has diminished over the recent years thanks to crossovers and SUVs, Mercedes will continue offering its E-Class wagon variant in North America.

Unfortunately, the company has confirmed the hotter Mercedes-AMG E43 is currently not planned for the U.S. market, although that doesn't rule out any other AMG models. Don't be surprised if the range-topping E63 comes to the U.S. at a later date.

For now, shoppers will have to settle for the E400 4MATIC wagon, which sees its powerplant mated to a nine-speed automatic transmission.

With three rows of seats, the E400 wagon allows seating up for up to seven and the model comes standard with foldable rear-facing seats in the cargo area. The 2017 Mercedes E400 wagon will be available in both Luxury and Sport models, so shoppers can choose between classic bumpers and styling with a hood ornament or sportier bumpers further accented by a grille.

Like the E-Class sedan, the wagon variant benefits from all the new high-tech features including two optional high-resolution displays.

Volvo V90 and S90 Polestar models could make 600 horsepower

Volvo's Polestar performance tuning division is looking to turn up the heat on both the new S90 and V90.

Volvo R&D chief Peter Mertens confirmed to Motor Trend that Polestar models for the S90 and V90 are coming and they could pack up to 600 horsepower. What is most impressive is that these cars will use a modified version of Volvo's 2.0-litre supercharged and turbocharged four-cylinder engine, with some help coming from a hybrid system.

The 2.0-litre engine alone can be cranked up to around 450 hp according to Mertens, while the hybrid system would provide the remaining power. Currently, the electric motor in the T8 plug-in hybrid models puts out 87 hp, so it would have to be upgraded. If Volvo hits the 600 hp mark, it will be able to keep up with its rivals from BMW M and Mercedes-AMG.

Jays' offence runs dry against Arizona

Yasmany Tomas and Peter O'Brien both hit home runs as the Arizona Diamondbacks held off the Toronto Blue Jays for a 4-2 win on Tuesday night.

Kevin Pillar's two-run double was the only offence the Blue Jays could muster as Toronto (39-34) wasted a quality start by Marco Estrada (5-3). He struck out eight over six innings but gave up three runs on two hits.

The Blue Jays have now lost three straight.

Jose Bautista, who was added to the disabled list Friday after he slammed his left big toe against the outfield wall in Philadelphia, has been diagnosed with turf toe by Dr. Robert Anderson, a Charlotte, N.C., foot specialist.

Manager John Gibbons said the Jays are in wait-and-see mode.

"Just wear a boot a couple weeks and see where he's at," Gibbons said, adding that Dr. Anderson "wasn't too alarmed" by the injury.

EURO 2016 GROUP STAGE

Blazers' win sets up Spain-Italy match in knockout stage

Croatia came from behind to beat two-time defending champion Spain 2-1 Tuesday and finish top of Group D at the European Championship.

Ivan Perisic's 87th minute goal ended Spain's unbeaten run at the Euros that stretched all the way back to 2004.

The defeat means Spain will meet Italy in the round of 16 in a mouth-watering match in Saint-Denis on Monday — a repeat of the 2012 final Spain won 4-0. Croatia will play one of the third-place teams in Lens on Saturday.

It started well for Spain, when striker Alvaro Morata redirected the ball into the net after a shot by midfielder Cesc Fabregas in the seventh minute.

But Nikola Kalinic equalized just before halftime with a nice back-heel flick to beat Spain goalkeeper David De Gea at the near post after Perisic delivered the cross.

Spain had a chance to retake the lead, but defender Sergio Ramos saw his controversial penalty saved by Croatia's Danijel Subasic in the 72nd minute.

It proved a costly miss when Perisic finished off a counter attack with a low left-foot shot past David De Gea's near post.

GROUP D In Bordeaux

2	1

Spain was at full strength despite having already qualified, playing with the same 11 that won its first two games.

Croatia was without star midfielder Luka Modric and forward Mario Mandzukic due to muscle injuries.

"The team spirit helped us and we were fighting until the last minute," Perisic said. "I think we can go far now. If we play like this we can go to the very end."

In Lens, Turkey rebounded from two losses to beat the Czech Republic 2-0 and keep alive its chances of reaching the knockout stages from Group D.

In Paris, Germany finished atop Group C with a 1-0 win over Northern Ireland which still booked a place in the round of 16 thanks to the Czech Republic's loss.

And in Marseille, Poland set up a knockout match against Switzerland with a 1-0 win over Ukraine. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Ujiri: Draft is 'such an exciting time for us'

NBA

Raptors own pair of picks in first round

Now is a time of great importance for Toronto Raptors president Masai Ujiri, owner of a bonus lottery pick in Thursday's NBA draft before he heads into the free agency period trying to improve a team that fell just two victories shy of playing for the league championship.

It could be seen as a time of great stress and great pressure as well, the period when a talent evaluator with final say over the construction of a roster can ill afford to make a major mistake that could set his franchise back significantly.

It speaks to Ujiri's nature that not only did he seem unbothered by the circumstances Tuesday, he spent a fair amount of his time chatting with the media making light of the whole affair.

General manager Masai Ujiri won't divulge who the Raptors are leaning toward drafting. CARLOS OSORIO/TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

He joked about All Over The Place Monday leading into All The Options On Your Board Tuesday and was quite excited and not at all daunted by the possibilities that lie ahead.

"There's no pressure to me, I can never feel there is pressure or we can't feel that way," he said.

"I tell my guys: 'It better work out.' That's the pressure. This is how I grew up in the league and there is so much pride in it. It's how my guys grew up ... such an exciting time for us. We don't look at it as pressure at all."

It is true that in some regards Ujiri has a bonus card to play Thursday night, when he owns the No. 9 pick in the draft courtesy of the New York Knicks and an Andrea Bargnani trade, as well as Toronto's own No. 27 pick. It's a bit of an embarrassment of riches and provides myriad opportunities to make moves.

"You continue to narrow and narrow (list of possible suggestions) and when you have a bunch of guys you have different options," he said. "You can look at trading the pick, you can look at drafting a guy who doesn't come right away, you can look at a player you can draft and develop slowly.

"We just feel it's a great position for us to be in."

TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

NO. 9 PICK

A variety of mock drafts circulating narrows the Raptors' prospects to big men including Domantas Sabonis, Ska Labissiere, Henry Ellenson and Deyonta Davis but even Ujiri admits it's a stretch to think any of them would be of immediate assistance.

UFC

St-Pierre says he's ready to fight again

Former UFC welterweight champion Georges St-Pierre says he's ready to return to the octagon.

The 35-year-old Canadian fighter told the podcast MMA Hour that he's ready to come out of retirement in an interview on Monday.

St-Pierre said things still need to be ironed out with the UFC, however.

He hasn't fought in three years since beating Johny Hendricks for his ninth straight welterweight title defence.

Georges St-Pierre GETTY IMAGES

"I love my sport and I still feel I'm at my best right now," St-Pierre said. "The clock is running. I'm not getting any younger. I'm in the peak of my career and if there is a shot, there is another goal, another run, I better do it and do it quick, because it is time to do it now." THE CANADIAN PRESS

RECIPE Grilled Courgettes With Feta and Chilli

Ceri Marsh & Laura Keogh
For Metro Canada

Zucchini is a surprisingly satisfying base for any vegetarian meal. Simply grilled and topped with soft feta cheese and spicy chilli, it makes a quick, hot dinner or an excellent, chilled lunch the next day.

Ready in
Prep time: 10 minutes
Cook time: 10 minutes

Ingredients
- 2 zucchini, sliced thinly
- Extra virgin olive oil
- ½ - 1 fresh chilli (red or green) finely diced
- ½ cup Feta cheese
- ¼ cup lemon juice
- handful fresh mint, finely chopped
- Salt and pepper to taste

Directions

1. Use a mandolin or vegetable peeler to thinly slice your zucchini. Heat a frying pan or a grill pan with a bit of oil until medium hot, then add the zucchini. Fry quickly for about 2-3 minutes until the zucchini soften.

2. Remove from the pan and spread the zucchini out on a plate.

3. Sprinkle the zucchini with the chopped chilli, crumbled up feta cheese, and squeeze the lemon on top. Season, drizzle with olive oil, and sprinkle the mint on top.

IT'S ALL IN THE STARS Your daily horoscope by Francis Drake

Aries March 21 - April 20
Guard against the temptation to promise too much to others today just because you want to please them. (And don't exaggerate, because you will be found out.) The fish was how big?

Taurus April 21 - May 21
This is a good day for business and commerce. However, it is easy to go overboard today, so be careful. Don't pay too much for something.

Gemini May 22 - June 21
Today you are optimistic and enthusiastic. Be careful not to overlook details today while doing everything in bold, broad strokes!

Cancer June 22 - July 23
Because you feel sympathetic for others who are less fortunate today, you want to help. You might work behind the scenes using social media or some kind of publicity.

Leo July 24 - Aug. 23
You'll be happy to lend your energy to charitable organizations to help the needy today. This is also a great day to schmooze with others. Have fun!

Virgo Aug. 24 - Sept. 23
Your relations with others, especially in classes, meetings and groups, are upbeat and positive today. This is a good day to set long-range goals, because you are quick to see the whole picture.

Libra Sept. 24 - Oct. 23
You are so smooth-talking today that you will impress parents, bosses, VIPs and the police. (They like your optimism and positive attitude!)

Scorpio Oct. 24 - Nov. 22
In financial discussions, especially about inheritances and shared property, be careful about details. You might be so focused on the big picture that you overlook something small that is important.

Sagittarius Nov. 23 - Dec. 21
Relations with partners and close friends are upbeat and joyful today. It will be fun to sit down with others and plan big projects.

Capricorn Dec. 22 - Jan. 20
To protect yourself, be reasonable in your promises to co-workers and customers at work today. Don't go overboard, which you might be tempted to do. Nevertheless, your enthusiasm is a welcome thing!

Aquarius Jan. 21 - Feb. 19
You might overdo having a good time today — overeating, overdrinking and overspending! Meanwhile, romance swoons dizzily along.

Pisces
Feb. 20 - March 20
You've got big plans to make improvements and repairs where you live. Today is a good day for family discussions about how to improve your home.
